

A LEAGUE OF Her OWN

Documentary Series
4 x 15 minutes

LOGLINE

As Canada launches its first professional women's soccer league, three generations of women reveal the fight, sacrifice, and resilience that transformed the game—and the dreams that are finally becoming reality.

SYNOPSIS

Filmed during the inaugural season of Canada's first professional women's soccer league, A League of Her Own follows the pioneers who fought for the opportunity to play, the athletes shaping the game today, and the next generation dreaming bigger than ever before. Through intimate interviews, archival material, and broadcast match footage, the four-part documentary series captures a defining moment in Canadian sport while exploring universal themes of resilience, identity, mentorship, and opportunity.
